The Housing Choice Voucher Program is the nation’s largest rental assistance program. More than 5 million people in 2.2 million low-income households use vouchers.

5.3 million people in 2.2 million American households use a voucher to afford decent, privately owned housing.

- 11% of voucher recipients are elderly
- 23% of voucher recipients are disabled
- 70% of voucher recipients are in families with children

- 68% are seniors, children, or people with disabilities.

Vouchers Fight Homelessness

On a single night in 2016, there were 550,000 people experiencing homelessness in America, including 86,100 adults with disabilities who have been homeless for long or repeated periods. An estimated 2.7 million American children—including 1.3 million children under 6—were living in shelters, on the street, doubled up with other families or in hotels or motels during the 2015-2016 school year.

Housing vouchers sharply reduce homelessness and housing instability, numerous studies show.

If Congress does not increase renewal funding to cover changes in incomes and rising rents, the number of vouchers available to American families will fall, and homelessness and housing instability among low-income residents will worsen.

68% are seniors, children, or people with disabilities.

Vouchers help 600,700 of America’s seniors afford decent, modest housing and age in place.

Vouchers enable 1.2 million people with disabilities in America to live independently in their home communities.

1.0 million families with 2.2 million children in America use a voucher to keep a roof over their heads.

...but 7 out of 10 low-income American households pay too much for rent and do not receive a voucher or other federal rental assistance due to limited funding.

...but 7 out of 10 low-income American households pay too much for rent and do not receive a voucher or other federal rental assistance due to limited funding.
Vouchers Strengthen Families

Vouchers make housing affordable, reduce housing instability, and help children to grow up healthier. Children in homeless families that receive housing vouchers change schools less often and are 42% less likely to be separated from their families and placed into foster care. Their families are also 20% less likely to be food insecure and 34% less likely to experience domestic violence.

Vouchers support working families: 69% of non-disabled, working-age American voucher households had at least one member who was working in 2016 or had worked recently.

Vouchers Strengthen Communities

Property owners in America received $17.5 billion in voucher assistance payments in 2016. This helped them pay property taxes and prevent blight by maintaining their properties in good condition. Vouchers support all types of American communities, including 584,900 people in rural areas and small towns.

Vouchers Expand Opportunities for Children

Vouchers enable children to grow up in better neighborhoods and thereby enhance their chances of long-term health and success. 399,000 American families use their vouchers to live in neighborhoods where the poverty rate is below 20%.

Children in families that use housing vouchers to move to better neighborhoods are more likely to attend college, less likely to become single parents, and earn more as adults.

August 9, 2017

---

CHART 1: Guibts et al., “Family Options Study 3-Year Impacts of Housing and Services Interventions for Homeless Families,” Department of Housing and Urban Development; CHART 2: CBPP tabulations of 2016 Department of Housing and Urban Development administrative data and Housing Assistance Council geographic classifications by Census tract.

Low-income households have incomes that do not exceed 80 percent of the local median income. For a family of three in America, 80 percent of the local median is equivalent to $47,300.

Download data for all 50 states and D.C. at https://apps.cbpp.org/7-25-17/hous/data.xlsx.