

Oklahoma TANF Spending

In 2017, Oklahoma spent about $174 million in federal and state funds under the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program. It spent 60 percent of these funds on core activities, which include basic assistance, work activities and supports, and child care. The state spent above average among states on child care, but spent significantly less on work activities to help poor families find jobs.

TANF Provides a Safety Net for Few Poor Families

In 2017, for every 100 poor families with children in Oklahoma, only 9 received TANF cash assistance, down from 16 in 2001. During that time, Oklahoma cut its spending on basic assistance, even as the number of families with children below 50 percent of the poverty line grew significantly.

Federal TANF Allocations and State Maintenance of Effort (MOE) Requirements

- The annual federal TANF block grant has been frozen since its creation and lost about a third of its value between 1997 and 2017 due to inflation.
- Since unspent block grant funds can be carried over to future years, a state may spend more or less than its federal block grant allocation in any given year. In 2017, Oklahoma spent $114 million in federal TANF funds.
- Every year each state must also spend, from its own funds, at least 80 percent of its historical spending on poor families with children. (In some cases, this “MOE” requirement can be reduced to 75 percent.) In 2017, Oklahoma claimed $60 million in MOE spending.
